

When It's Enough?

“When you believe there is enough you start seeing opportunities for generosity everywhere”

The good picture of the world where the creation is an expression of God's generous love. He's the host and humans are his guests in a world full of opportunities and abundance.

Look at the picture where birds don't store food for themselves as they have enough. Flowers growing up and they don't stress about their existence.

But the world is full of struggle and scarcity, and not abundance.

So maybe there isn't enough? Maybe there are not enough resources? So maybe I need to take matters into my own hands!

If you are fooled by the idea of shortage caused by the allegations of resource depletion. This will justify the urge to take care of me and me before anyone else. It leads to jealousy, anger, violence, and a world where it seems like there is not enough.

Two children carry a family hygiene package from UNICEF to their tent in Fafin camp near Aleppo/Syria.

----

Living generously doesn't mean life is going to go well. Like prophets who lived generously, they were betrayed by their friends and they suffered. People took advantage of the prophet's generosity. we are all deceived by this lie that there is not enough!

At which stage of Maslow's hierarchy of needs do people think there is enough? So they are generous?

---

<sup>1</sup> Halil Cuma